
Assima partners with Hurix Digital

Announcement

8th May, London – Assima, a global leader in systems training and digital adoption, has partnered with Hurix, a leading innovator in content development, to enable organizations to train their employees on client solutions at scale, reduce training costs, and drive faster adoption.

The partnership will utilize Assima's Systems Training Platform, a patented solution that creates hyper-realistic simulations of any enterprise application. This will provide Hurix's customers with a safe environment to master new or upgraded technology solutions to adopt new processes, improve customer experiences, and maximize the return on their technology investments. Furthermore, the partnership will allow customers to drastically reduce training costs by eliminating the need for hard-to-maintain training environments.

Related Resources:

About Hurix

Hurix is revolutionizing how digital content is experienced globally. With 22 years of experience as a pioneer of digital publishing technology, Hurix powers business agility for leading publishers and corporate organizations worldwide with its mobility and digital content solutions. Every day, more than 10 million users across 25+ countries in 20+ languages experience Hurix Digital.

Hurix offers enterprises and educational institutions top-quality digital solutions and online teaching platforms. They leverage best-in-class technology and software infrastructure to create custom corporate learning solutions that cater to every business need. They aim to deliver a comprehensive user experience through the latest technologies and ensure that all digital products and services conform to the highest standards.

Media Contact: Assima

info@assima.net